ARTICLE 14 - SENIORITY

14.1 Definitions

For production workers, the Employer recognizes the principle of seniority provided that an employee is competent to perform all job duties for any position to which he/she is assigned to work pursuant to the provisions of the Article. Competency will be based on an assessment of an employee's ability to do the work and efficiently meet the requirements of the position. The seniority of an employee means the length of service with the Employer since his/her last date of hire.

For Supervisors, seniority will be the length of time in the position of Supervisor. Competency shall be defined as meeting production performance standards, and possessing the necessary skills, abilities and qualifications. For Supervisors who are promoted from the production workforce, the original date of hire will only be recognized for the vacation entitlement purposes.

For purposes of clarification the Employer is committed to providing the necessary training that will enable Supervisors to achieve the required level of competency.

For full time regular employees, one (1) year of service shall equate to the calendar year. For temporary employees, one (1) year of service will equate to 850 hours worked from the date of hire.

14.2 Layoff

Employees shall be laid off in reverse order of seniority, subject to the employee being competent to perform the required work.

14.3 Sequence

Temporary employees shall first be laid off followed by full-time regular employees.

14.4 Bumping

If an employee displaced from his or her position by the layoff procedure has the competence to do so, that employee may bump another employee with less seniority. In such cases, the employee shall receive the wage rate for the classification into which he or she bumps.

An employee may only bump up if he/she has previously held the job in the operation on a regular basis. In the event that a Supervisor is laid off who has previously accumulated seniority as a production worker and who successfully posted into a Supervisory position, he/she may exercise his/her production worker seniority and bump into that classification. Supervisors that receive layoff notice and who do not have production seniority may use their Supervisor seniority to bump into the production classification. However, under no circumstances will production workers be allowed to bump Supervisors.

Temporary employees may not bump full-time regular employees.

Where there is a product changeover, senior employees who are currently working on the line that has stopped production for the purposes of cleaning, the following will apply:

All employees currently working on the line where production has ceased to commence cleaning will stay on the line to commence the cleaning for the remainder of the day. However, if the cleaning carries over to the next day, senior employees will then have the option to bump junior employees to do production work.

14.5 Recall

For the purposes of recall from layoff, the above procedure and sequence shall be reversed. The Employer may recall employees under either one (1) of two (2) conditions:

a. Short Notice

When an employee is recalled, the Employer will advise the employee at least one (1) working day prior to the date the employee is to return to work. Employees will be advised of recall by telephone. If the Employer is unable, after reasonable efforts, to contact the laid off employee within four (4) hours, the Employer may recall the next employee in the sequence.

b. Normal Notice

When an Employee is recalled, the Employer will advise the employee three (3) working days prior to the date the employee is to return to work. If the Employer is unable, after reasonable efforts, to contact the laid off employee, the Employer may recall the next employee in the sequence.

14.6 Rate Upon Recall

Employees recalled to work shall receive the current rate for the classification into which they are recalled.

14.7 Vacancies

Production worker vacancies above those at an entry level, which are greater than thirty (30) days in length, in existing or new classifications for full-time employment shall be posted in a conspicuous location for three (3) consecutive working days. The posting will outline the classification, the wage rate and a brief description of the position. All applications for the posted positions must be filed in writing with the Employer by the end of the third (3rd) working day after the initial posting, on forms supplied by the Employer. Selection will be based on seniority and ability.

Notwithstanding the above, while vacant Supervisor/Chargehand positions will be posted, the internal or external candidate who, in the Employer's opinion is most qualified, will be selected.

14.8 Trial Period

Production employees filling vacancies or obtaining promotions through the procedure outlined above shall serve a trial period of twenty one (21) days actually worked.

During this period, they shall be paid one-half (2) of the difference between the rate of their current job and that of the new classification.

If during this trial period the employee is considered by the Employer to be unsuitable for the new position, or if the employee feels that he or she cannot do the job, the employee shall be returned to his or her former position or one of equal rank.

14.9 Probationary Period

Each new production employee shall serve a probationary period of forty five (45) days actually worked, commencing with his or her date of hire. This may be extended by the Employer, with the consent of the Union, for a further fifteen (15) days actually worked.

For Supervisor positions the probationary period will be 720 hours worked. With the consent of the Union, these periods may be extended for bona fide reasons.

Re: Loaders

The purpose of this Letter of Understanding is to protect current loader, Renato Palalay who has a night shift preference, from being assigned to other shifts by the Employer. Mr. Palalay will inform the Employer if he becomes available to work other shifts. At that time, this Letter of Understanding will cease to be in effect.

In the future, all new employees who post or are hired into this position will do so with the understanding that they must be available to work any shift as assigned as well as overtime. In accordance with past practice, and except in emergencies, Loaders will perform sanitation work only if it is directly related to the Loaders' work and where there will not be a layoff of a sanitation worker.

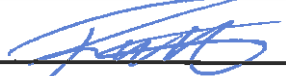

The above employee will inform the Employer if he becomes available to work other shifts.

Grandfathering protection will cease if the employee requests a different shift or posts into a different position. The exception to this is where the employees mutually agree to exchange shifts and permission is granted by the manager or designate.
